

IWMS

Handmade In Canada by Women

The Cloth Facemask Initiative

Sewmates Craft has made 100 cloth facemasks to donate to Mission Possible for distribution to the homeless community in the Downtown Eastside.

We are now fundraising for 1,000-2,000 cloth facemasks for designated care home facilities and/or homeless shelters.

Want to donate?

- $500 donation for 100 cloth facemasks
- $300 donation for 60 cloth facemasks
- $200 donation for 40 cloth facemasks

Individual orders are also being accepted. With every purchase of 10 masks at $125 plus delivery fee, an additional 5 facemasks will be donated to Mission Possible.

Donate or order via <https://my-site-iwms.square.site/>

SUPPORTED BY:

The Cloth Facemask Initiative is a project of Intercultural Women's Maker Society (IWMS) and its member Sewmates Craft.

Sewmates Craft, a business collective of immigrant women, was developed with support from DIVERSEcity Community Resources Society and Vancouver Community College.

IWMS supports women with diverse cultural backgrounds in improving their skills, expanding social networks, and gaining self-confidence and independence through maker-based entrepreneurial activities.

Important information about this mask:

This cloth face mask is not meant to be used instead of a medically certified mask.

- Wash your hands well in soap and water before you put the mask on.
- Before you use the mask, insert a piece of non-woven fabric as a filter, e.g. dry baby wipes (but not T-shirt material) between the two layers.
- Make sure the mask covers your mouth and nose. Don't touch your face or mask.
- Wash the mask (including the inner layer you added) in soap and hot water and sterilize it with 75% alcohol spray when you take it off so it will be ready to use again.

Contact: Florence Kao at fkao@dcrs.ca
sewmatescraft@gmail.com
Michael Yue at myue@vcc.ca

Tel: 604-547-1662

Address: 250 W Pender St, Vancouver, BC V6B 1S9